PUBLISHING

CATALOGUE
JULY – DECEMBER 2020

Greetings from Osprey!

The second half of 2020 sees a host of fantastic titles coming out from both established Osprey authors and new contributors alike. In September, we are publishing The English Civil War: An Atlas and Concise History of the Wars of the Three Kingdoms 1639–51 (p.1), a highly detailed cartographic survey of the epic struggle between Parliamentarians and Royalists from award-winning historian Col Nick Lipscombe. The same month also sees the publication of Tory Failmezger's Rome – City in Terror (p.1), which pulls together the many strands of the story of Rome under nine months of German occupation from 1943 to 1944.

We have two other new World War II titles publishing in the autumn, with Tom Cleaver's I Will Run Wild (p.2) vividly recounting the early history of the Pacific War from the surprise Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor to the dramatic American victory at Midway. Prit Buttar also concludes his epic trilogy detailing the fighting in the Ukraine with The Reckoning (p.2), which describes the gruelling German retreat from advancing Soviet forces in a campaign that set the scene for the final act of the war on the Eastern Front.

One of our best-selling publications, The Boys of '67 (p.3), is reborn as a graphic novel that tells the story both of Charlie Company's brutal experiences in Vietnam as well as the challenges faced by the wives, girlfriends and families left behind. In Mutiny on the Spanish Main (p.4) renowned naval historian Angus Konstam looks at the bloodiest mutiny in British naval history aboard HMS Hermione in 1782. Matthias Strohn's Blade of a Sword brings to life the experiences of a German infantry regiment on the Western Front in World War I through the writings of famed German author Ernst Jünger.

Osprey Games continues to publish releases in our various wargaming series, including two new campaigns for World War II ruleset Bolt Action (p.29), the first supplement for the second edition of the award-winning Frostgrave (p.27), and new rules for facing elite warrior units and undead hordes in the mass-battle fantasy wargame Oathmark (p.28).

Fans of Peer Sylvester's board game The King Is Dead will be delighted with our upcoming second edition in July, complete with a stunning new graphic overhaul and a brand-new game mode (p.23), and in September, we have something for those of you with a competitive green thumb in Village Green – a board game of pretty gardens and petty grudges (p.24). In October, we also turn our eyes to the Silk Road and the ancient city of Merv as players vie to amass power and wealth in a tense economic Eurogame from designer Fabio Lopiano with graphic design by Ian O'Toole (p.25).

The latter half of 2020 will also see the continued expansion of our line of roleplaying games into a fantasy Bronze Age (Jackals, p.26), the martial world of ancient China (Righteous Blood, Ruthless Blades, p.26), and the dark and claustrophobic frontiers of outer-space (Those Dark Places, p.26). Whatever your play style, we hope you'll find something that excites you.

Enjoy!

The English Civil War

An Atlas and Concise History of the Wars of the Three Kingdoms 1639–51

Nick Lipscombe

A lavishly presented atlas of the conflicts that ravaged the countryside of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland from 1639 to 1651.

The English Civil Wars that raged from 1639 until 1651 comprised the deadliest conflict ever fought in the British Isles, tearing apart families, regions, cities and villages as they armed themselves in support of either the Royalist or the Parliamentary cause. In this stunning atlas, more than 150 maps depict in unprecedented detail the complete story of this revolutionary civil war, from the earliest skirmishes of the Bishops' Wars in 1639–40, through to 1651, when the Royalist cause was crushed with Charles II's defeat at Worcester, forcing him into a decade-long exile. The maps are supported by a detailed text, providing a full explanation of the complex and fluctuating conflict, which represents a profound turning point in Britain's military, political, social and religious history.

Colonel Nick Lipscombe MSc FRHistS served for 34 years in the British Army, seeing considerable operational duty with the British and American armies. He was awarded the US Bronze Star in 2006. He is an accomplished historian, author and lecturer. His works include the award-winning Peninsular War Atlas and Concise History, Wellington's Guns, Wellington Invades France, the official Waterloo 200 Bicentenary book on the Battle of Waterloo and, most recently, Wellington's Eastern Front.

Rome – City in Terror

The Nazi Occupation 1943–44

Victor 'Tory' Failmezger

The gripping story of the German occupation of Rome from the Italian armistice in September 1943 until the liberation of the city in 1944.

In September 1943, after the announcement of the Italian armistice, the German Army disarmed Italian forces and overran Rome. The Gestapo wasted no time enforcing an iron grip on the city, but resistance remained strong throughout the nine-month-long occupation that followed. Priests and diplomats operating out of the Vatican aided escaped POWs while Italian partisan fighters launched attack after attack on German military units in the city, with the threat of execution never far away.

Rome – City in Terror tells the compelling story of the Eternal City brought low, of the terror and hardship of occupation, and of the disparate army of partisan fighters, displaced aristocrats, Vatican priests, Allied POWs and ordinary citizens who battled for the liberation of Rome.

Victor 'Tory' Failmezger is a retired US Naval Officer. In the early 1970s, he was stationed at NATO in Naples and in the early 1980s he served as the Assistant Naval Attaché in Rome, where he participated in the celebration marking the 40th anniversary of the city's liberation. He was later Director of the US Navy Science and Technology Group, Europe. His recent works include the popular American Knights.

I Will Run Wild

The Pacific War from Pearl Harbor to Midway

Thomas McKelvey Cleaver

A vivid history of the early stages of the Pacific War, as US and Allied forces desperately tried to slow the Japanese onslaught.

I Will Run Wild on extensive first-hand accounts and fascinating new analysis to tell the story of Americans, British, Dutch, Australians and New Zealanders taken by surprise from Pearl Harbor to Singapore that first Sunday of December 1941, who went on to fight with what they had at hand against a stronger and better-prepared foe, and in so doing built the basis for a reversal of fortune and an eventual victory.

These are their many individual stories of courage and determination in the face of overwhelming odds which are every bit as gripping as the stories associated with the turning tide after Midway.

Thomas McKelvey Cleaver is the author of numerous well-received titles for Osprey, including the best-selling Frozen Chosen, as well as Pacific Thunder, Tidal Wave, and Holding the Line. He is additionally the author of F4F Wildcat and F6F Hellcat Aces of VF-2 published by Osprey and the best-selling Fabled Fifteen: The Pacific War Saga of Carrier Air Group 15, a history of the US Navy's top-scoring carrier air group in World War II, published by Casemate.

The Reckoning

The Final Defeat of Army Group South, 1944–45

Prit Buttar

An engrossing account of the final year of fighting in Ukraine during World War II, using extensive memoirs of German and Russian soldiers.

The Reckoning is the third and final part of an epic trilogy covering the bitter course of World War II in Ukraine. Following on from Retribution, in which, under constant pressure from the advancing Soviets, the German Army retreated beyond the Dnepr, The Reckoning sees the Germans pushed back further across the Bug and Dniester and onwards towards final defeat. Large numbers of German troops were encircled in the Cherkassy Pocket, and to a lesser extent in the Kamanets-Podolsk and Brody pockets, while German forces in the Crimea were isolated and ultimately destroyed. The casualties suffered by the German forces were immense, forcing the diversion of an increasing proportion of the diminishing strength of the Wehrmacht to the region; this in turn left almost no reserves elsewhere and thus greatly facilitated the devastating blow that fell upon the German Army Group Centre in the summer of 1944.

Prit Buttar studied medicine at Oxford and London before joining the British Army as a doctor. An established expert on the Eastern Front in 20th-century military history, his previous books include Battleground Prussia: The Assault on Germany's Eastern Front 1944–45 and Between Giants: The Battle for the Baltics in World War II and a definitive four-part series on the Eastern Front in World War I.

The Boys of '67

Charlie Company's War in Vietnam

Andrew Wiest and Erik Hendrix

A graphic novel adaptation of Andrew Wiest's best-selling The Boys of '67, covering Charlie Company's experiences in Vietnam, the impact on their wives and families, and the homecoming that followed.

Across the nation in the spring of 1966, farm boys from the Midwest, surfers from California and city-slickers from Cleveland joined Charlie Company as part of the military build-up for the war in Vietnam. They deployed together, experiencing the camaraderie, the fear, the smell, the pain, the brutal violence and senseless deaths. Back at home, the families of Charlie Company faced their own challenges, confronting fear, loneliness and uncertainty. As the war came to a close, everyone had irrevocably changed. This vibrant graphic novel is an emotionally raw and visceral journey through the tragedies, sorrows and triumphs of the Vietnam War and its aftermath.

Dr Andrew Wiest is University Distinguished Professor of History and the founding director of the Dale Center for the Study of War & History at the University of Southern Mississippi. Wiest's titles include Vietnam's Forgotten Army: Heroism and Betrayal in the ARVN and The Boys of '67.

Erik Hendrix's curiosity for history was sparked by his father, a retired Marine and Vietnam Veteran, and has informed his writing career, which includes co-writing the graphic novel D-Day: Storming Fortress Europe.

Brigadier Ben Barry led the British Army's analysis of the lessons of the Iraq campaign, which, though classified, informs Blood, Metal and Dust. Before leaving the British Army in October 2010, he wrote A Cold War: Front-line Operations in Bosnia 1995-1996, which was shortlisted for the British Army Book of the Year award. He has written extensively for the International Institute for Strategic Studies, including for Survival, its journal, and Strategic Survey, its annual assessment of world affairs.

Even before the original Frostgrave rulebook landed in players' hands, its artwork, previewed in the run-up to release, attracted widespread attention and acclaim. Today, some eight volumes, two novels, and seven boxed sets of plastic miniatures later, Dmitry and Kate Burmak have produced more than 85 illustrations, guided by the concepts developed by Frostgrave creator Joseph A. McCullough. Together, these three have breathed life into the Frozen City, depicting the wizards, warriors, and creatures that call it home.

With behind-the-scenes content, including concepts, sketches, work-in-progress shots, and commentary from the creators, this lavish volume features all the artwork produced for Frostgrave – from the rulebook that started it all to the Perilous Dark supplement.
